

General Medicine English Medium

Institute: Institute of Medicine

Degree: Specialist

Language of Instruction: English

Duration of studies: 6 years

Mode of study: intramural

Description:

This specialization is aimed at helping people, which means it is highly appreciated all over the world. This program combines theoretical knowledge and practical skills, allowing students to choose their medical specialty. Students study the structure of the human body, the system of development of various diseases and modern ways of their treatment, master the theory and methods of providing medical care, get acquainted with prevention and rehabilitation measures. Practical training is organized at the best medical centers and hospitals of Petrozavodsk and the Republic of Karelia where students can work with established professionals in this field acquiring knowledge and experience.

The program is taught in English by highly qualified teachers, professors, and candidates of medical, pharmaceutical, and biological sciences. In our General Medicine (English medium) program students will study from 1st course till 3rd course completely in English Medium and from 4th course till 6th course lectures will be held in English while medical practice at health facilities will be conducted in the Russian language. Students will be studying the Russian language as a subject from 1st till 3rd course. As students will have to interact with local patients in their practical classes, they are required to have knowledge of the Russian language to do so. Petrozavodsk State University is enlisted in the World Directory of Medical Schools published by the World Health Organization (WHO).